Since Pierangelo Gallotti and Luigi Radice founded their eponymous company in 1956, the Italian design brand has been at the forefront of glass experimentation—for instance, introducing a pioneering metal joint showcased in Gallotti's T35 tempered-glass coffee table trio from 1975. To celebrate its 70th anniversary, Gallotti&Radice unveils Tales in Glass, an edit that includes myriad bold console and coffee tables executed in the medium. Some standouts: Ivania Carpio combines textured molten glass with a soft matte finish in Vitrine, Estudio Persona highlights matte paint in Cauce, and Fumie Shibata explores ombré effects in Kooshi. Massimo Castagna also puts a fresh spin on his 2015 Haumea coffee table with a new brushed silver travertine base option. Buon compleanno! gallottiradice.it ➘
